Last week, fans of Bodog Fight's groundbreaking online mixed martial arts series The Vault saw middleweight champion Trevor Prangley advance to the finals of a four-man elimination tournament at the HP Pavilion in San Jose, Calif.

The hard-hitting South African earned a controversial decision over Hawaiian Falaniko "Niko" Vitale (24-8) in the tournament opener, when an eye injury caused doctors to stop the fight after two closely fought rounds. The three ringside judges scored the bout 19-19, 19-19, and 20-18 for Vitale, ruling the bout a majority draw. That meant the decision would go to the referee who, with Vitale injured and unable to progress further in the tournament, awarded the fight to Prangley (17-4). This Tuesday, April 8, visit bodoglife.net/fight to see Prangley square off against Brazilian Jorge Santiago in the tournament final.

As seen on The Vault, Santiago (15-7) scored a devastating knockout over Sean Salmon (14-5) just seconds into their opening round fight, to earn a date with Prangley in the finals.

Who will win the first-ever sanctioned MMA tournament in the Golden State?

The answer lies within The Vault.

Don't miss another episode of Bodog Fight: The Vault on Saturday, April 12, featuring a middleweight bout between Florida's Emyr "Shark" Bussade (10-4) and Russia's Andrei Semenov (26-9-2).

Bodog Fight: The Vault offers streaming video of all-new, never-before-seen fights each Tuesday and Saturday, commercial free. Each webisode is fully downloadable and iPod-ready, featuring a previously unaired bout from the Bodog Fight archives.
