

Pittsburgh vs Syracuse Betting Odds

Contributed by Matt Foust
Thursday, 25 September 2008
Last Updated Thursday, 25 September 2008

The Pittsburgh Panthers have gotten off to a rough start despite their 2-1 record. Head Coach Dave Wannstedt's team was suppose to be one of the more improved clubs in the country, but they dropped their opener to Bowling Green and have sneaked by Buffalo and Iowa. This week they open conference play against the Syracuse Orange at the Carrier Dome in Syracuse, New York. College Football Betting Odds at Sportsbook.com are favoring the road Panthers at -15.5.

Pittsburgh earned a hard fought win last week against the Iowa Hawkeyes, and Panther fans are hopeful that it kicks starts a team that has been a little sluggish to begin the year. Pittsburgh is averaging just 21.7 points per game while allowing 21 points per game. Even in their win last weekend they had 102 fewer yards than Iowa. They have also been prone to giving the ball away, averaging 2.3 turnovers per game this season.

The Syracuse Orange are having another dismal year under Head Coach Greg Robinson. They have garnered just one win and in their three losses, they have been beat by an average of 25 points. Offensively they are generating 294 yards per game, and the defense is giving away 475 yards per game, which opponents have turned into a 37 point per game average.

They will certainly need to step up their efforts this week against Pitt to stay in the game. Last week, in their only win of the season, they allowed FCS school, Northeastern, to post 383 yards on offense.

College Football Betting Odds Trend: Syracuse is 0-12 straight up as a home underdog the last three seasons.

Sportsbook.com's Pittsburgh vs Syarcuse Betting Odds:

Pittsburgh Panthers -15.5 (-110), Over 46.5 (-110)

Syracuse Orange +15.5 (-110), Under 46.5 (-110) Matt Foust of Winning Totals is on a hot streak hitting 60% (22-15-1) of his College Football picks in 2008, increasing his clients bank roll +518 units heading into Week 5. Foust has released a 325% guaranteed College Football Pick tonight on the USC Trojans vs Oregon State Beavers game for $15.00. This winner is backed by Winning Totals Weekly College Football Package.