

Bowling Green vs Northern Illinois Betting Odds

Contributed by Matt Foust
Saturday, 25 October 2008
Last Updated Saturday, 25 October 2008

After winning just two games last year, the Northern Illinois Huskies find themselves at 4-3 heading into week nine of the college football season. The Huskies are also 3-1 in MAC play and have a legitimate shot at the conference title if they continue to play the solid brand of football that they have the past several weeks.

College football betting odds at Looselines.com have the Huskies as a -7 home favorite today against MAC rival Bowling Green. The game kicks off at 3:00pm ET at Huskie Stadium.

Northern Illinois started the season with a BCS tilt against a resurgent Minnesota Golden Gophers squad. The Huskies did not win the game but they took the Gophers to the wire, indicating that last season's woes were probably behind them. They have without question proven that to be true the last five weeks, going 4-1 with their only loss coming at Tennessee.

On the year, Jerry Kill's team is averaging 28.9 points per game and holding their opposition to just 13.7 points per contest.

Bowling Green, a traditional football power in the MAC, has been inconsistent this season. Many expected the Falcons to be the class of the conference, returning 17 starters from a team that went 8-5 last year, but that assumption has proven to be false. Bowling Green currently sits at 3-4, and they are 1-2 in conference play with losses to lowly Eastern Michigan and Miami (OH).

College Football Betting Trend: The Under is 8-2 in Northern Illinois' last 10 as a home favorite against a MAC foe.

Looselines.com's Bowling Green vs Northern Illinois Betting Odds:

Bowling Green Falcons +7 (-110), Over 47.5 (-110), +240 (Money line)

Northern Illinois Huskies -7 (-110), Under 47.5 (-110), -280 (Money line)

Matt Foust is heating things up in 2008 college football, and his clients are up +257 units. Matt called a big winner on Thursday night as the West Virginia Mountaineers easily covered the -2.5 spread against Auburn. But today Matt has a winning side lined up in the Oklahoma State vs Texas Longhorns game that he does not want you to miss. You can get this guaranteed pick for just $15.00 or you can get it and all of Matt's big value plays by purchasing one of his monthly college football picks package.