

Missouri vs Iowa State Betting Odds

Contributed by Matt Foust
Saturday, 15 November 2008
Last Updated Friday, 14 November 2008

The 8-2 Missouri Tigers have traveled to Ames, IA this week for a showdown this evening with the Cyclones of Iowa State. The game is set to begin at 6:40pm ET at Jack Trice Stadium. Iowa State, who has not won a conference game this year, is a +27 home underdog at SBGglobal.com.

Missouri, after slipping up a bit in mid-season, appears to be back on track. They have now rattled off three straight wins and are 4-2 in conference play. The Tigers are undefeated against Big 12 North teams, winning by an average of 36.67 points per game when facing them.

Last week the Tigers jumped all over a hapless Kansas State squad in the first half, but they eased up enough to let the Wildcats finish within 17 points. Head Coach Gary Pinkel's squad is averaging 45.1 points per game this year and posting an even better 47.5 at home.

Iowa State is having a forgettable year to this point and it is not likely to get any better this evening. The Cyclones are just 2-8 on the season and they are 0-6 in Big 12 play. They have lost their conference games by an average 19.66 per game.

The Cyclones will have their hands full trying to contain Chase Daniel and Missouri's high powered spread offense. The Iowa State secondary is giving up an average of 271.3 yards per game through the air.

Missouri vs Iowa State Betting Odds Trend: The Under is 8-3 the last five years when Missouri played as a road favorite coming off a home win.

SBGglobal.com's Missouri vs Iowa State Betting Odds:

Missouri Tigers -27 (-110)

Iowa State Cyclones +27 (-110) Matt Foust is on fire in college football right, going 11-4 over the last month (9-3 on sides), netting his clients +590 units. On the year, he is 52-40 in college football plays and has his clients up +757 units. Expert CFB Handicapper Matt Foust has another winner lined up for this Saturday between the Minnesota Golden Gophers and the Wisconsin Badgers. Point-Spreads.com recommends purchasing Matt's College Football Weekly Picks package which offers bettors the most bang for your buck.