

2009 Wimbledon: Andy Murray vs Viktor Troicki Odds & Prediction

Contributed by Scott Burgess
Friday, 26 June 2009
Last Updated Friday, 26 June 2009

Third seed Andy Murray made quick work of Latvian Ernests Gulbis in the second round as he didn't disappoint Great Britain's title-starved tennis fans. Murray's next opponent, Saturday June 27, is Serbian Viktor Troicki who is 0-2 against Murray. Wimbledon oddsmakers at Bodog.com have Andy Murray as -5000 moneyline favorite over Viktor Troicki who is listed as +1200 underdog. Be sure to get your 2009 Wimbledon: Andy Murray vs Viktor Troicki Odds & Prediction in now at Bodog.com

Viktor Troicki is seeded for the first time in a Grand Slam tournament at this year's Wimbledon Championships seeded No.30. He beat Brian Dabul in straight sets in the first round, and won a five-setter against Daniel Gimeno-Traver in the second round. He made it to the second round at the 2008 Wimbledon and his best Grand Slam result was the third round at the 2008 US Open. He is currently 18-16 with no titles throughout his career. He was a runner-up at the Legg Mason Tennis Classic losing to Juan Martin del Potro in straight sets.

Andy Murray is Britain's favorite to bring home a Championship and by the way he's played the first two rounds he's looking very good. He made quick work of Ernests Gulbis winning 6-2, 7-5, 6-3 in 88 minutes during second round action. "I thought I played well," said Murray. "I served really well for the whole match. Apart from the very first game where he had a couple of chances on my serve, I didn't give him another break point. I used my variety very well. It was much, much better than the first match, against Robert Kendrick. I stayed focused on my own serve. I didn't give him any opportunities. It was very solid." He recently won the AEGON Championships at Queen's Club which is the build up to Wimbledon and it was Andy's first win on grass. This is why he is a favorite, but there was no Roger Federer at the AEGON. Andy is 40-6 this year with four titles and 12 career titles. Andy has not dropped a set to Viktor Troicki in the two matches they played.

2009 Wimbledon: Andy Murray vs Viktor Troicki
When: Sat, June 27, 2009 7:00 AM ET
Line: Bodog.com
Pick: Murray -5000

Point-Spreads.com 2009 Wimbledon: Andy Murray vs Viktor Troicki

The Bottom Line: Murray will roll on until he faces some tougher competition. Go Murray! Be sure to get your 2009 Wimbledon: Andy Murray vs Viktor Troicki Odds & Prediction in now at Bodog.com and receive a 10% Deposit Bonus and start winning today!