NASCAR Lifelock.com 400 Betting Odds: Darkhorses Kevin Harvick and Jamie McMurray have been pitted against each other by online bookmaker Sportsbook.com in this weekend's Lifelock.com 400 at the Chicagoland Speedway in Joliet, Illinois. The 267 lap race will take place this Saturday, July 11th at 7:30pm ET; it will be broadcast live on TNT. Harvick is listed as a -150 moneyline in Sportsbook.com's NASCAR Lifelock.com 400 Betting Odds: Kevin Harvick vs Jamie McMurray.

Kevin Harvick's miserable season continued last weekend as he finished a distant 26th in the Coke Zero 400 at Daytona International. The poor finish marked the fourth time in the last five races that Harvick was unable to crack the top 20. The 33 year old's average finish this year is just 23.7 and his place in the point standings reflects that fact (26th with 1683 points).

In 18 races this year, Harvick has managed just two top 10 finishes, with his best result coming at the Daytona 500 back in February (placed second).

However, Chicagoland may be Harvick's magic elixir as he has been outstanding at the track in the past. In eight races at the speedway, the California native has two wins, five top fives, and six top tens. He placed third in last year's race there and his average finish at the track is 7.4.

Jamie McMurray, who drives the No. 26 Crown Royal Ford for Jack Rousch, is enjoying a better season than Harvick, but his 2009 run has hardly been the stuff of legend. McMurray is 19th in the standings with a total of 1863 points and he has broke the top 10 just three times this year. Nonetheless, he had a quality finish last week, coming in 11th after starting 22nd. He has now finished between 11th and 14th in five of the last six races.

McMurray has raced at Chicagoland six times in his career and finished inside the top 10 just once. He placed 21st in last year's race at the track. Qualifying for this weekend's race is scheduled to take place tonight at 8:30pm ET. Matchup odds are subject to change after the starting positions have been set.
