California vs Oregon College Football Odds, College Football Predictions & College Football Picks: The California Golden Bears are in Eugene, Oregon today to open their conference season against Chip Kelly's Ducks. The two Pac-10 rivals will clash at 3:30pm ET today at Autzen Stadium; the game will be televised live on ABC. College Football Odds at BetUS.com have the Bears listed as a -5.5 against the spread road favorite.

No. 6 Cal moved to 3-0 last week, making it the new front runner in the Pac-10 race. Yes, USC is still right there, but the Trojans have to take on Jeff Tedford's team in Berkeley next weekend. The Bears must avoid the look ahead today against a beleaguered Oregon squad.

California got a big road win last weekend, beating Minnesota in their new stadium. The Bears jumped out to a 21-7 led but the Gophers tied the game 21-21 with a touchdown late in the third quarter. Running back Jahvid Best put his team back on top, though, with two touchdowns in the final frame. Best boosted his Heisman credentials with a 26 carry, 131 yard, five touchdown performance.

Cal's defense held the Gophers to 270 total yards and they picked off quarterback Adam Weber three times.

Oregon improved to 2-1 with their second straight close win at Autzen Stadium. The Ducks got a 31-24 victory last Saturday over the No. 18 Utah Utes, ending the nation's longest regular season win streak. The team's vaunted rushing attack finally showed up and produced 217 yards. Quarterback Jeremiah Masoli contributed to that total with 47 yards in 12 carries, but freshman LaMichael James did the bulk of the work, rushing 27 times for 152 yards. The pair combined for three touchdowns in the win.

Oregon's defense held the Utes to 297 yards and 15 first downs, totals well under Utah's season average.

College Football Odds Betting Trend: Cal is 4-1 straight up in their last five meetings with Oregon.
