Dancing with the Stars Season 9 will go through 12 more cuts before deciding on the champion. With so many more rounds of dancing to go down before the champion is crowned, it's never too early to put your money down on who you think will win. Entertainment betting can be easy; especially when the player has a good idea who almost certainly will not survive.

In last weeks Dancing With the Stars Season 9 odds show, Kathy Ireland and Tom Delay had the lowest scores but Chuck Liddell, Louie Vito, Michael Irvin, Melissa Joan Hart, Joanna Krupa, and Kelly Osbourne were within two points of them. It really was up to the voters.

Throughout the night, the cuts were judicious and the audience was on edge. After 12 pairs were saved, two remained: Debi Mazar & Maks, and Kathy & Tony. Their stomachs were in their throats, it could go either way. Then Tom brought the knife down, and Kathy was cut.

Entertainment oddsmakers list Tom Delay as the dancer with the worst winning odds at +1500 but the former politician has been saddled with bad odds since the season's beginning and still finds ways to hang around.
